GOERING TESTIFIES AT FIRE TRIAL

Denies Report Of Nazi Reichstag Plot.

TELLS HOW HE INSPIRES
HIS POLICE

Berlin, Yesterday.

Dimitroff, the leading figure in the Reichstag fire trial, which has been occupying the attention of the Supreme Court at Leipzig for the past month, has been re-admitted to the Court. With the exception of brief intervals during the opening stages of the trial, Dimitroff, who is charged with high treason, has been excluded from the actual hearing.

The special dispensation was granted to-day to enable the accused man to hear the testimony of Captain Goering, the Premier of Prussia. The Court was crowded with police officers with clanking swords.

Captain Goering contemptuously refuted the Brown Book's "grotesque and absurd" allegation that he fired the Reichstag in accordance with Dr. Goebel's plan. He extolled the strictly paratively humane treatment of by the Nazis.

He described how as head of the Prussian police he imbued them with a feeling of the true anti-Marxist spirit. He stated that he also imbued them with a feeling of reliance on him by telling them that, "When you shoot, I shoot."

He raised a laugh in the Court when he referred to the comparatively humane treatment of the Communists by the Nazis. "I am not so foolish as to imagine that Dimitroff's revolutionary tribunal would have proceeded so gently with us if our positions were reversed," he remarked.

To this, Dimitroff nodded a vigorous assent. — Reuter.

ANTI-NAZI RIOTS IN SOUTH AFRICA

German Newspaper
Office Attacked.

Johannesburgh, S. Africa.

Yesterday.
A local German newspaper office was to-day attacked and considerably damaged by a riotous crowd after a meeting held by "The Relief Committee for the Victims of German Fascism."

The authorities had previously expressed their inability to prohibit the meeting in accordance with the German Consul's request.

The Consul has now lodged a protest against the anti-Nazi riots. A responsible Minister has expressed regret. — Reuter.

NANKING TO REDUCE MAIL RATES TO HONG KONG

Parcels Sent Via Canton Cause
Heavy Revenue Drop

Nanking, Yesterday.
The Ministry of Communications has instructed the Post Office to reduce postal rates on parcels addressed to Hong Kong and Macao.

In order to avoid the present high rates senders, it has been discovered, have been addressing parcels to Canton, whence they were re-forwarded to Hong Kong and Macao by express companies, thereby seriously affecting the postal revenue. — Reuter.

FRENCH PREMIER SUPPORTED

Vote Of Confidence
from Deputies.

DRAMATIC PATRIOTIC APPEAL

Paris, Yesterday.
The new French Cabinet, headed by M. Albert Sarraut, has passed its first test. The Chamber of Deputies passed a vote of confidence in the Government, by 320 votes to 32 on Friday.

The vote of confidence was followed by a most eloquent speech by the Premier, M. Albert Sarraut.

He declared, "France is my religion. I love the country fiercely because I have seen it not only from home but from elsewhere, and because it grows greater the farther one is away from it. It has a great mission to fulfill in the world."

He appealed to the Republicans to help him accomplish his task for national greatness.

"The Government's financial ideas will be submitted in a few days. Then we will fight it out. The Government will die if it must," he said.

The Centre Left Party and the neo-Socialists voted for the Government, and the Communists and the Extremist Right against the Government.

Six Machines Land
At Muihsien.

SURVEYING THE DISTRICT?

Canton, Yesterday.
Canton has received a sensational report from Swatow to the effect that in the past few days Japanese aeroplanes were sighted several times at Swatow, Pinghai and Muihsien.

Six Japanese planes are said to have landed at Muihsien aerodrome on November 1. They stayed about 20 minutes before taking off. Each machine is reported to have been manned by two Japanese.

Their object, from all appearances, was to make a survey of the eastern Kwangtung districts. — Central News Agency.

TREASURY ADVISER MAY RESIGN

FORD TO LAY OFF 45,000

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DEMANDS PERMANENT GOLD STANDARD

New York, Yesterday.

President Roosevelt's determination to adhere to the Warden gold buying experiment despite the growing scepticism of his financial advisers is, according to the opinion expressed by the Washington correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune, the reason underlying the reported decision of Mr. Sprague, General Adviser to the United States Treasury, to resign.

The President has indicated that no protests were received from Great Britain or France when they were informed of the American objectives. The United States does not wish to injure the franc or to drive her off the gold standard.

A special meeting of the New York State Chamber of Commerce has unanimously passed a resolution demanding the most prompt measures towards the restoration of a permanent gold standard, declaring that the Administration should unequivocally announce that it will not adopt a managed commodity.

FARMERS RESORT TO VIOLENCE.

Dynamite Creameries
In Wisconsin.

New York, Yesterday.

Despite the fact that the announcement of a tentative plan to relieve the farm emergency was made by the white house on Thursday, violence has flared up in the farm strike.

Two men were severely beaten by pickets, at Woodbury County, Iowa, yesterday, during an outbreak in which several shots were fired. Other minor disturbances are also reported.

A dynamite explosion wrecked two creameries at Shawano, Wisconsin, where pickets were trying to prevent the marketing of milk. Five hundred members of the Farm Holiday Association at Madison, Wisconsin, have voted in favour of the continuation of the farm strike.

An even more disgusting report comes from Minnesota. A message declaring that the farmers are organising military units, armed with tear gas bombs, has been sent to president Roosevelt by Mr. Francis Shoemaker, a congressman of Redwing. He urges the immediate raising of farm prices as a necessary move to avoid serious trouble.

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD.
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received November 4, 10.24 a.m.)

Washington, Yesterday.
United States Administration officials have disclaimed any intention to upset the world's financial stability.

Although it has been confirmed that the New York Federal Reserve Bank is authorised to purchase unlimited amounts of foreign gold at any price the Bank deems advisable, it is expected that the Federal Reserve will co-operate closely with the Bank of England, the Bank of France and possibly with commercial banks in those countries, in order to preserve financial stability.

BUSINESS FASCISM UNPOPULAR.

Ford's Violation Of
N.R.A. And Code.

Washington, Yesterday.

The United States Consumers' Board has virtually joined the Trade Unions in opposing Mr. Gerard Swope's "Business Fascism" plan.

The N. I. R. A. officials are most amazed at the Ford Motor Car Company's announcement that it will lay off 45,000 workers and that the Dearborn plant will be idle for seven days in order to comply with the 35-hour week automobile Code.

While it is indicated that President Roosevelt is determined to give the National Industry Recovery Administration full opportunity to prove itself, he will not relax Federal control of industry until he is convinced that industry is fit for self-rule.

This action is described as a definite violation of the spirit of the N. I. R. A., if not a violation of the letter of the Automobile Code. — Reuter.

Mr. Swope's recommendation, which was promptly endorsed by General Hugh Johnson, and Mr. Harriman, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, includes the empowering of big business to administer the labour and Wage Codes, the Government retaining only the power of veto. It further embraces a plan for the permanent merging of all the "Code field" businesses and industries into a self-regulated National Chamber of Commerce.

Millionaire Monarchist's Daring Escape From Gaol

Madrid, Yesterday.

A sensation has been caused by the escape of the millionaire Monarchist, Don Juan March, from the gaol in Spain, where he has been awaiting trial for 18 months on vague charges. He crossed the frontier unrecognised and has arrived in Gibraltar. — Reuter.

The unweaving ceremony, on October 1, of the memorial at Altonne, France, erected in memory of the 48 victims of the R 101 airship disaster near the spot where the dirigible fell in 1930. The Premier and Air Ministers of Great Britain and France and a gathering of representatives of both nations, attended the ceremony. The photograph shows an aeroplane dipping in salute, while French soldiers present arms. — (S. & G.).

BRITISH SHIPPING COMBINE

Cunard And White
Star Companies.

WORKING ARRANGEMENT
BEING NEGOTIATED

London, Yesterday.

The Directors of the Cunard and White Star Lines are to hold a meeting in London to consider proposals for a working agreement between the two Companies.

An intimate working agreement between the two companies would enable the Cunard Company to secure a substantial Government loan to complete the giant liner on which work is still held up.

It is believed that negotiations have reached the stage of forming a new operating Company, but official confirmation is withheld pending the formation of the Company.

It is learned in the most authoritative shipping circles that it is too early to say when the shipping conference will definitely meet, but there is a strong feeling in many quarters that such a conference is the only solution to the shipping crisis. — Reuter.

Empire Cargoes For Empire Ships.

London, Yesterday.

An All-Empire Conference will meet in London early in 1934 to preserve the Empire's cargoes for Empire ships, states the Daily Express to-day.

An organising committee is being formed and invitations will be despatched to the representative shipping interests in the Dominions and the Colonies, this month. — Reuter.

AN ATLANTIC CRUISE IN 1934

BY U.S. FLEET

Warships May Be Moved
From Pacific.

'FLEET SHOULD BE ACQUAINTED WITH BOTH OCEANS'

Washington, Yesterday.

President Roosevelt has authorised an Atlantic Cruise by the United States Fleet in 1934.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy has announced that the question of the Fleet's move from the Pacific is now seriously being considered.

The only reason given is that "the Fleet should be acquainted with both oceans." — Reuter.

REPORT WELCOMED IN JAPAN

Abnormal Situation Will
No Longer Exist

Tokyo, Yesterday.

The report that the United States fleet is planning to return to the Atlantic is welcomed in official quarters as an indication of a return to normality.

The concentration of the fleet in the Pacific for nearly two years created an abnormal situation and stirred national sentiment to some extent, a Foreign Office spokesman declared, opining that the report, though not yet received officially, would make a favourable impression in Japan. — Reuter's Pacific Service.

BRADMAN SCORES 200

26 Boundaries Recorded
In 184 Minutes.

N.S.W. v QUEENSLAND

Brisbane, Yesterday.

Bradman, the famous Australian cricketer, scored a double century in his first innings of the season when playing for New South Wales against Queensland in the Sheffield Shield series. Bradman was in scintillating form, reaching the boundary on twenty-six occasions in his knock which lasted 184 minutes. — Reuter.

Recognised as the world's leading batsman Bradman holds the record individual score in a Test match between England and Australia—334 at Leeds. He also holds the world record of 452, scored against Queensland.

GUERRILLA WARFARE IN SIAM

Revolt Continuing Unabated.

HEAVY COST TO GOVERNMENT

Singapore, Yesterday.

The revolt in Siam is continuing with unabated vigour. According to a Bangkok message, delayed by the censor, guerilla warfare is being carried on against the insurgents in north-eastern districts.

Damage to the extent of several million taels is estimated to have been caused by the revolt. The expenditure on the campaign is seriously affecting the administration which is already faced with financial difficulties.

The Siamese army has successfully exploited mechanised traction, aeroplanes and wireless in the present operations.

The Women's Party, under the leadership of the wife of the Premier of Siam, are assisting the Government troops. Their work, however, is confined to the rear of the fighting line and to help in feeding the troops.

The King's evacuation from his residence at Singora has not yet been reported, and it is assumed that he is still there. —

ROSENBLUM RETAINS BOXING TITLE ON POINTS

Mickey Walker's Plucky Display.

LOSES 12 OF 15 ROUNDS
BEFORE 10,000

New York, Yesterday.

Maxie Rosenbloom, the holder, beat Mickey Walker on points in a fifteen round fight for the world's light heavyweight boxing title at the Madison Square Garden to-day.

A crowd of 10,000 saw Rosenbloom secure the decision very easily. He won twelve of the fifteen rounds after he had lost the first round during which he was twice warned for fouling. He, however, won the next seven rounds, punching Walker all round the ring.

Walker was hampered by a shorter reach, but very pluckily rallied in the ninth and tenth rounds when he obviously distressed Rosenbloom with a spirited, but short lived, two-fisted attack.

After this, however, Rosenbloom had matters all his own way. — Reuter.

Chapter X. — THE "TIGER OF TIBET."

(By GERALD BURRARD.)

I WONDER whether the "Tiger" keeps an electric torch," Geoffrey thought aloud rather than spoke. But Phyllis heard him. "The very thing. How stupid of me! I saw one in a drawer of his writing-table." And she darted up into the room once more. Geoffrey was about to follow her when he thought it would only delay matters as she seemed to know exactly where to look. Suddenly he was horrified by hearing her give a stifled cry. He drew his pistol and rushed back up the steps. Before he reached the top he could see into the room and beheld it full of armed men, two of whom held Phyllis in spite of her struggles. He did not dare fire but rushed on.

As he entered the room a heavy stick crashed on to his head and he collapsed insensible on the floor. When he recovered consciousness he realised that he was once more bound hand and foot. A vaguely-familiar voice said, "Drink this." He obeyed mechanically and swallowed the contents of the proffered cup while someone held up his head. He sank back again and closed his eyes, but very soon his senses cleared and he opened them once more. Gazing round, he saw that he was lying on the couch in the "Tiger's" den, and that there was one occupant of the room sitting writing at the table. Geoffrey recognised him immediately as Philip Haydon Thompson, and realised that he had at last tracked the "Tiger of Tibet" to his lair. This much he had accomplished, but the honours of victory lay with the enemy.

For some minutes Thompson wrote on and then he turned. "Well, my dear Barraclough, this is a very pleasant meeting. I trust you are feeling better?" Geoffrey glared at him in silence, determined not to allow himself to be drawn.

"What? You don't want to talk? Dear, dear. But I think we can soon put that right a little later on. For the moment it does not matter. But before we go any further with this delightful, though a present somewhat one-sided, conversation, I really must congratulate you. You have done remarkably well, and knowing you as long as I have I never gave you credit for so much. By the way, I am sure some of your Foreign Office pals would like to be remembered to you. I found I had to leave London for a while in order to satisfy my craving for big-game hunting. Oh, but I felt I had to. You know, the call of the wild and all that sort of thing. And talking of London, have you been doing the righteous hero stunt at any more dances lately? Yes, very fine you thought yourself then, no doubt. Champion of damsels in distress indeed, you interfering hound. We'll see how you will rescue the charming Phyllis this time. The silly little fool. She has even lost what looks like a diamond. Doubtless you won't be so anxious to meddle with me again. But we will see whether you will prove quite so heroic shortly when some of my followers pay you certain attentions which crude people term 'torture' before we finally bring about that state which is known as the dissolution of the flesh. But, tut, tut! I am getting away from the point, which is that you have done remarkably well. Honestly, I had no idea that we had the privilege of entertaining so redoubtable a guest until my men found the hilt of a certain knife and that you had taken it. That gave the show away. And besides, no Hindu pundit could ever have achieved such doughty deeds as you have done, but of course it is a habit of yours to strike at men when they are not looking. All the same, I am filled with admiration, and my followers with joy. You see, they think that it shows you will take a lot of killing."

He looked at his captive the while he spoke, but Geoffrey tried to pretend that the words had no effect on him. One sentence, however, filled him with elation. Thompson had said, "we had lost only one such knife." But what about the one which Sher Khan had taken from the body of Kurram Ali at Delhi? The "Tiger" obviously had no idea of this, and the thought filled Geoffrey with hope. Sher Khan was still at large and unsuspected.

Thompson struck a small gong and a couple of Tibetan servants entered almost immediately. He gave a brief order and they at once untied Geoffrey's feet.

"Now, come along, Barraclough. You must be getting hungry. This time I intend to keep you under my own personal supervision."

He brushed aside a curtain and unlocked the very door which Phyllis had discovered just before they were recaptured.

"You seem surprised, Barraclough. Yes, this is the part of my poor abode which you were deigning to visit when I happened to re-enter my own room. You will now learn all its mysteries. Just a flight of steps and then a couple of rooms. No more. There is no other exit except through this room. I use them as special guest-rooms, so to speak, and only invite those into them whom I am particularly anxious to entertain; I have kept one for you and have handed other over to those charming Merriewes. Come along. After you."

Geoffrey knew that resistance, bound as he was, was out of the question, and mechanically obeyed Thompson's sneering commands. He was very tired and had suddenly realised that he was also very hungry.

Phyllis Merriew.

"Oh, by the way, I fear that I have little to offer in the way of furniture, ornaments, and other such amenities. I have accordingly done the best I could. I trust you will find my poor efforts at decoration to your taste."

As Geoffrey descended the steps and entered a small cell, he pointed to three dark masses suspended on one of the walls. A lamp flickered in the middle of the floor, and by its light Geoffrey saw, to his horror, that each of these masses was a newly-severed human head!

In spite of himself Geoffrey felt his knees giving at the sudden shock. After all he was very tired. He had been exerting his utmost physical effort during the whole morning, and this at an altitude of over fifteen thousand feet. Such exertions alone would have been more than sufficient to tire him out, and the stunning blow on the head had added to the resulting weakness. He tottered and collapsed on a bed of skin rugs which had been set in the corner of the cell.

"So you are tired?" Thompson's voice still mocked him. "I am not surprised. You have really been doing too much just recently. You seem to forget that this is Tibet and not London! The height is bound to make a difference."

He signalled to the two Tibetans, who immediately came forward and lifted a great iron chain. One end was fastened into a mighty staple in the wall, while the other ended in an iron girdle. They slipped the girdle round Geoffrey's waist and it was fastened with a lock and key. They then untied his hands and stepped away.

"Ah, that's better. You will feel much more free and easy and will be able to move about your room to your heart's content. Food will be brought immediately. But in the meantime you will probably like something to read, as I really cannot stay with you any longer, much

Mainly Women

Longer Hair Again In Fashion

Platinum Blondes Out Of Favour.

CURLS DURING TRANSITION

FASHIONABLE women all the world over will grow their hair this autumn and dress it in their own particular natural shade of brown.

Yes!

News comes that Paris has banned the platinum blonde. It is agreed everywhere that her vogue has lasted too long.

It was in America—where platinum washes were discovered—that feeling first turned. The women of New York, ever since April, have patriotically led the women of the United States in coming off the gold "head" standard.

The verdict of Broadway is "Wear your hair natural and long."

Compromise

London has compromised, as she always does. The leading West-end hairdressers are unanimous in their opinion.

"Hair is no longer being worn short," they said, "but in most cases we are tapering the gradual growth so that we can dress it up the back of the head in a mass of curls."

"These curls have to be tight, or they worry the wearer, who continually presses her hand to the back of her head under the impression her hair is coming down."

"The curls are the only way of effecting the transition from short hair to long."

"As fashions are going to be extremely feminine, the head-wave must be soft and fetching, no longer severely groomed and cold."

"We weave hair of moderate length into a plait across the head, worn well above the cox-comb curls of the forehead. This is especially effective."

"Far fewer clients are asking for platinum shampoos. We are obliged to give those who have discontinued their use a dark wash instead to even up the colour of the hair growing out. This process is delicate and requires a long sitting."

"Women who have let their hair grow on holiday should not cut it. They may safely wear it longer, as hats have already been made larger."

Chamois Leather Gloves

THE secret of keeping chamois leather gloves soft lies in adding a little ammonia to the washing water.

Remember that the washing should be done in warm soap suds and that the gloves should not be rinsed. When they are clean, just squeeze them and hang them straight out to dry.

Efficient Tooth Care Basis

Scrubbing With Stiff Brush Essential.

HINTS ON MOUTH HYGIENE

GOOD teeth are not a gift of the gods. They are the result of careful mouth hygiene from babyhood on. With few exceptions all children are born equal as far as teeth are concerned. Scrupulous care will then keep the molars strong and beautiful throughout life.

The basis of all efficient tooth care is a several times a day scrubbing with a fairly stiff brush. Brush the teeth hard. And if you are in the incipient stages of pyorrhea and your gums are inclined to bleed, brush them still harder. It is the only thing that will give your circulation the pep it needs.

Tartar must be kept off the teeth, and since the most effective amateur care cannot usually accomplish this, it is necessary for you to have your teeth cleaned by a dentist at least twice a year.

A reputable member of the dental profession gives four rules for keeping the mouth beautiful and healthy:

Careful brushing—by which is meant careful brushing and not just a casual once over and around the teeth.

The use of limewater as a mouth-wash to be forced between the teeth.

The use of dental floss to remove particles of food from between the teeth.

General care of the body.

Sumptuous Satins For Afternoon

Furs Lavishly Used By Jean Patou.

JEAN Patou has set out to be sumptuous for Autumn and Winter. He has made satin frocks for the afternoon, and velvet, satin, satin-striped and broadened nets, for the evening, in colours which have all the rich beauty of precious stones. He uses mink, ermine, and fox furs lavishly. Molyneux, too, has the grand air, but with a touch of English austerity which is pleasing.

There are trains, bouffants, shoulder lines of great variety; light colours as well as dark. Rustling taffetas, satin that stands alone, and shimmering lames are made to flow full about the figure, and to encase it in sheath-like tightness.

The fish-tail dress is as much in fashion as the bustle dress with a tight front and all the fulness drawn to the back.

One might say that the only fashions which have not been revived are the crinoline and the chemise dress; both are too easy to make. The idea this year is for the rue de la Paix to turn out dresses which cannot be copied and sold for thirty shillings.

Opening Cruise Of The R.H.K. Yacht Club.

FENCING EXHIBITION

Brilliant weather, close finishes in the sailing races and keen competition in the rowing events featured the Opening Cruise of the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club yesterday.

A large number of members and friends were present and watched the racing from the clubhouse and from launches, which followed the events.

Sailing conditions were ideal, there being a stiff breeze prevailing throughout the afternoon. Conditions for rowing, on the other hand, were difficult, but later improved.

The bowls match was cancelled owing to the inability to raise teams.

A very entertaining fencing display was given by members of the Hong Kong Sword Club at the conclusion of the Regatta, the fencers showing expert knowledge of the art.

Those who took part were:—Foil Bout: Mr. F. J. T. Locke v. Capt. P. S. M. Wilkinson. Epee Bout: Mr. F. J. T. Locke v. Mons. Meunier; Sabre Bout: Capt. P. S. M. Wilkinson v. Mr. B. M. Volkl.

Lt. Comdr. Whitaker, H. M. S. Suffolk, acted as referee.

Before asking Mrs. F. Elliott to present the prizes, Mr. H. S. Rouse, said that Mr. Shields, the Commodore of the Club, although indisposed, had attended the function against doctor's orders.

He said that there had been some very close finishes in the racing and the ladies were to be congratulated on the manner in which they handled their boats, which were of a much increased size this year.

In the rowing races youth had triumphed, he remarked, although he felt sure that Ewo could, with more practice, do better next year.

At the conclusion of the prize-giving, Mrs. Elliott was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Miss Lennor Ralston.

L.B.A. PRESIDENT ADVOCATES LADIES' BOWLS

To mark the closing of the 1933 Lawn Bowls season a successful afternoon was spent at the Tai Koo Dock Recreation Club when two mixed teams met on four rinks.

The "A" Team, skippered by W. Wotherspoon, N. Drummond, R. Keown A. Whyte, lost to J. Russell, R. Wallace, J. Stewart and J. McKechnie by 23 shots.

At the conclusion of the game the presentation of the prizes for the 1933 season by Mrs. Grog took place. After presenting the prizes, Mrs. Grog was presented with a bouquet by Miss E. Keown.

Mr. J. Russell, the President of the Lawn Bowls Association, said that the progress of the game in Hong Kong has been really amazing and that he would like to see in the future a series of competitive bowls matches between the ladies of the various clubs, many of whom are fostering this idea.

ATHLETIC BEATEN BY ARTILLERY

KOWLOON'S FLATTERING WIN OVER RECREIO

NAVY'S DRAMATIC TRIUMPH

THE defeat of the Chinese Athletic, Second Division League champions, by the Artillery proved the outstanding feature of yesterday's local league football programme. After being led 2-1 at the interval the Chinese side collapsed badly to sustain their second defeat.

Kowloon beat the Recreio by the odd goal, but their win flattered them, while the Police lost by a dramatic last-minute goal to the Navy in the First Division.

The South China third team suffered their second check in the championship race when they were held to draw by the University, who secured their second point in five games.

FIRST DIVISION.

Police Unlucky To Lose To Navy.

DRAMATIC DECIDING GOAL

The Navy snatched a last minute victory at Caroline Hill against the Police when they won by 2 goals to 1.

The Police were unlucky to lose. Two minutes before the end victory was in their grasp when Brook went through to beat Woodman only for the ball to strike the crossbar, and then Fairless dashed away and scored the winning goal.

The Police forwards were far more dangerous, with Brook a good leader but he hung a little too much, especially in view of a few faulty clearances by Woodman. It was by far the best performance of the season for the Police to go so close against such a strong Navy side. Their halves played splendidly with Chammings outstanding, while Gough and Brook shone in the forward line.

Purkins at half was the outstanding Navy player, his tackling and recovery was splendid and he piled Fairless with great passes. The approach work of the Navy forwards was good but the finishing was weak, each of the inside forwards trying to walk the ball into the net.

The Police opened the scoring in the first minute, Gough sending in a hard shot which Woodman only partially saved. Woodman then made two splendid saves from Moss after good work by Brooks and Gough. After 20 minutes the Navy equalised when headed into an empty goal.

In the second half the Navy attacked for long periods without success, and then Gough had a great chance, but Woodman saved well. After Brooks had struck the crossbar Fairless took the ball down the wing to net from close in.

Navy: Woodman; James, West; Purkins, McGuire, Thomas; Fairless, Smith, Langman, Barnett and Bungee.

Police: McHardy; Blackburn, Pile; Perkins, Chammings, Brittain; Moss, Gough, Brooks, Green and Shepherd.

Saints Too Strong For Artillery.

LEONARD SCORES TWICE

The improved St. Joseph's team fulfilled expectations yesterday when they defeated the Artillery by 4 goals to 2 on the Army ground at Sookunpo.

Before the game was many minutes old, Gosano sent over a perfect centre for Leonard to shoot past Wood. In the next minute, Gosano drove tremendously hard, but Wroe intercepted what appeared to be a certain goal.

The Saints were combining well and there was no noticeable weak spot in the team. A. V. (Continued on Page 13.)

To-day's Big Game.

South China, champions and the Borderers, runners-up last season, will clash in the First Division of the League at Sookunpo this afternoon at 4.15 p.m.

LINCOLNS SOCCER TEAM TO PLAY IN CANTON

To-day's Match Against Military Academy

Permission having been granted the Lincoln to postpone their fixture against the Athletic until next Sunday, the premier league leaders are sending the following team to play the Canton Military Academy in the southern capital this afternoon: Heath, Turner and Edmondson; Dudley, Cork and Bett; Bakley, McGuinness (Cpl.), Higgins, Ridley and Hoquard (Captain).

"HAT TRICK" FOR MISS CHURCHILL

H.K. Ladies Win By 3 Goals To 1.

MISS ALVES OUTSTANDING

Dominating play through the game ten of the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club's first eleven defeated the Recreio Ladies by 3 goals to 1 at Sookunpo yesterday afternoon.

The outstanding feature of the game was the excellent combination between J. Churchill and Mrs. Selby, the Hong Kong Ladies' left wing combination, which resulted in J. Churchill netting three good goals.

B. Pope the winners' centre half played a brilliant game and it was mainly due to her efforts that the Recreio forwards were held up time and again.

Another outstanding pair were the Recreio backs, M. Basto and C. Osmund, particularly the former whose brilliance during the second half of the game led to the complete bottling up of the Hong Kong Ladies' attack.

M. Bird and M. Franklin, the Hong Kong Ladies' backs were not too sure of themselves and made a very bad error in playing up to the half way line, a clearance by M. Basto being noted by M. Roza after a 60 yards run.

The surprise feature of the game was the poor displays by E. Bonnar and B. Hanco, who had previously acquitted themselves brilliantly.

TO-DAY'S MAMAK GAME

The United Hockey Club will meet the Hong Kong Mule Corps in a Mamak Tournament match on the Marina ground this afternoon at 4.15 p.m. L/Cpl. Mullins (R. E.) and J. S. Grewal (Radio) will officiate as referees.

C.B.A. v GERMANS TO-DAY

The Mamak hockey fixture, scheduled for to-day, between the Central British Association and the German Club, has been postponed as the German Club are unable to field a full team. They will, however meet the C. B. A. in a friendly game at King's Park.

Y.M.C.A. v C.B.A. CANCELLED

The hockey game between the second elevens of the Y.M.C.A. and the Central British Association, which should have been played yesterday on the Y.M.C.A. ground, was cancelled owing to the non-arrival of the C.B.A. team.

CLUB BEAT BORDERERS BY 16 PTS. TO 5

Losers Handicapped By Injuries.

WHITHAM SHOWS UP WELL

Playing with one man short for three parts of the game and without two men in the last ten minutes, the Borderers rugby fifteen were overwhelmed by the Club by two goals and two (16 points) to a goal (5 points) in their first encounter against the Civilians this season.

The Club were faster and superior in all departments, although in the first half, the three-quarters were not handling well, with the exception of J. J. Ferguson. Lammet was prone to run across instead of straight, but the try with which he opened the Club's scoring was a beautiful piece of work.

Ferguson added the Club's second points with a try between the posts, giving McLellan an easy kick at goal.

The shaky opening of the Club three-quarters throw a heavy responsibility on Whitham, but he played a sterling game at full-back.

The Club forwards were fully extended to hold their versatile opponents, who, although Jones went off with an injury after 16 minutes, were very dangerous with their rushes. Walters and Lloyd were particularly outstanding.

The Borderers scored their only try early in the second half the result of a good backing up by Walters. Lloyd's successful effort at goal was the finest kick seen this season.

At this stage of the game the Club backs were combining much better, and it was not long before Rigg went over for a try which Robertson converted. Lammet scored the final try in the last five minutes, shortly after Simmons was carried off suffering from concussion as the result of attempting to bring Ferguson down.

Martin, the Borderers speedy wing three-quarter was given little chance to get going, despite Tratt's excellent work as hooker.

The teams were as follows: Club: J. P. Whitham; J. J. Ferguson; W. H. Rigg; L. G. Robertson and G. P. Lammet; J. Hutchison and J. A. R. Selby (captain); F. R. Burch; M. McLellan; S. H. Garrod; G. C. Moutrie; A. F. Walker; A. D. Campling; G. A. Stewart and L. O. F. Campling.

Borderers: L/Cpl. Smith; Lt. Martin (captain); Lt. Gallely; Pte. Simmons; Sgt. Ford; Pte. Polo; L/Cpl. Howitt; Pte. Watkins; Cpl. Tratt; L/Cpl. Hardy; Pte. Gilmore; Pte. Lloyd; Pte. Waihan; Pte. Jones and Pte. Walters.

UNPLACED IN FIELD OF SEVEN!

MR. FROST'S BRILLIANT RIDE ON WARRINGTON

LOWEST "DOUBLE" ON RECORD

THE complete eclipse of Night Star, unbeaten Australian champion, in the Freemantle St. Leger yesterday provided the biggest local racing sensation since Diana Bay was beaten by Sadko at the Annual Meeting. Red hot favourite for the classic Night Star, ridden by Mr. S. N. Pan, was unplaced in a field of seven starters.

Rosy Morn (Mr. Deltz) won the Australian race from City of Brisbane (Mr. Frost) to pay $114.50, while What's That (Mr. Soares) paid $62.90 for a place.

Magnificent riding by Mr. Leo Frost gave Warrington a triumph in the Subs St. Leger, while Mr. "Johnnie" Heard won an easy race on Trentbridge in the Hong Kong St. Leger. These two riders shared the distinction of being the leading jockeys for the Meeting. Mr. Frost's win gave 300 of the 656 backers who were on King's Bounty (Mr. Proulx) in the first leg $30.60 for their $5 ticket—the lowest return on record.

An exceptionally small crowd witnessed Diana Bay's triumph over a field of four starters in the Shek-O Handicap in the first race of the afternoon.

The Dunbar crack collided with King's Justice (Mr. Heard), and Mr. Frost, the champion jockey, found himself in the unusual position of last when passing the stands. King's Justice set the pace with Sadko on his heels, but Diana Bay soon challenged, and at the foot-ball stands was second to Justice which was moving beautifully. Approaching the Rock the favourite took the lead from the Dynasty candidate and Sadko came through with a burst. Diana Bay led into the straight with Sadko rapidly overhauling Justice. Mr. Soares rode a fine race over the last furlong, but just could not catch the favourite in a more thrilling finish than was expected.

Sensational Upset

Night Star's eclipse in the Freemantle St. Leger provided the biggest local racing sensation since the defeat of Diana Bay by Sadko at the Annual Meeting.

Going to the post a red-hot favourite the Hong Kong champion could do no better than secure fourth place in a field of seven. Getting away to a poor start he was taken into second place after half a mile by Mr. Pan, but his effort on the outside of the field at this early stage of the race, and the gruelling race he was ridden to secure the lead in the back straight coming up to the Rock for the second time, proved altogether too much for him. He was beaten after the Rock had been passed for the last time.

Mr. Frost sent City of Brisbane, second favourite, into the lead from the start, but Night Star, left at the start and in outside position, was soon taken up to just behind the leader. Mr. Deltz was holding back Rosy Morn.

Night Star on Outside

Coming past the stands for the first time City of Brisbane held only a slight advantage over Night Star which had been taken once round on the outside. What's That was third with Rosy Morn, Portia, Ration, and Tucumseh following in that order.

Night Star went into the lead at the foot-ball stands and Mr. Pan attempted to increase the gap between City of Brisbane in the straight leading up to the Rock.

This proved his undoing and was the sign for What's That and Rosy Morn to close with City of Brisbane. Night Star was caught on the bend and Mr. Soares' mount led into the straight followed by Rosy Morn and City of Brisbane.

Mr. Deltz rode a magnificent race over the last furlong to overhaul What's That, while City of Brisbane came again well to snatch second place from Mr. Soth's entry. Night Star, unbeaten champion, was fourth, and Portia fifth.

Mr. Deltz's win was responsible for a win divided of $114.50, the highest of the day. What's That paid $62.90 for his place.

King's Bounty's Good Start

The first leg of the "double" saw King's Bounty get away to a fair start and win a straight race from

Mr. Sung sent Vigilance into the lead from the start, and at one period of the race was leading by very nearly two furlongs. The Shanghai jockey almost established a winning head, but was beaten by a neck in a magnificent finish in which the superb horsemanship of Mr. Frost proved the determining factor. Warrington was third when passing the stands for the first time, Vigilance and Burgomaster being ahead of him and King Salmon and Melody just behind. Vigilance was tiring badly at the Rock, though going well considering his earlier effort, and the field was closing up on him.

He was ahead of Warrington when the stands were reached, but was passed less than twenty yards from the post in a touch-and-go finish.

De Minimis just beat off King Salmon's challenge for third place and Partnership, Burgomaster, Gay Butterfly, and Melody finished in that order.

Mr. Frost's win gave 800 backers $30.60 for a "double" ticket. Stickypast (Mr. Proulx) was out the like a flash in the Tai Po Handicap and won convincingly from Cobu, which beat the well-favoured Wombly Stag. Heller Skelter was fourth.

DIFFICULTIES OF MARRIAGE

Loop-Holes Of Law Bring Many Disasters

WHERE DIVORCE COULD REPAIR BROKEN LIVES

(By Viscount Buckmaster.)

Sir Reginald Poole, in his address at Oxford as President of the Incorporated Law Society, has once more called attention to the unsatisfactory condition of our divorce laws. He said: "It is only after an experience of over forty years of the operation of the present law that I have come to the conclusion that the right of the Divorce Court to dissolve a marriage should be extended beyond its present limits." No one can question the authority with which he speaks. Few men, if any, can have had the same close professional relationship with the difficulties and disasters of marriage as Sir Reginald Poole. His pronouncement, therefore, if it stood alone, should command the attention of any Government, but it is only the latest utterance on a subject which has engaged the consideration of many people for a long period of time.

Commission's Report Buried

The report of the Royal Commission on Divorce was issued in 1912, after two years' labour of eminent men and women, presided over by the late Lord Gorell, and the examination of no fewer than 246 witnesses. For practical purposes that report has been buried, and the dust that gathers over its grave prevents people from seeing and understanding the effect of what it said.

By a majority of nine to three it recommended wide extensions of the grounds for divorce, and enforced the recommendation by saying that such reforms were in its judgment necessary in the interests of morality as well as in the interests of justice, and in the general interests of society and the State. To no greater principles could appeal be made.

It is incredible that the distinguished people who composed the majority on that report can have been utterly mistaken.

And yet their recommendations have been received with no more official consideration than might be paid to the resolutions of a debating society in a small provincial town.

The Commission recommended five added grounds for divorce—grounds which they stated were generally recognised as, in effect, putting an end to married life—desertion for three years, cruelty, incurable insanity after five years' confinement, habitual and incurable drunkenness, and imprisonment under commuted death sentence.

Relief From Insane Spouses

Sir Reginald Poole does not agree with all these recommendations. He is not in favour of granting divorce to the spouses of convicts or lunatics, and some other of the grounds he would desire to see modified.

The question of lunacy is no doubt extremely difficult; it was the subject of most minute examination in the report, and is recognised by the Commissioners as occupying a unique position distinguishing it from every other disorder. It was estimated that there were 70,000 insane married people, and that of this number 40,000 would represent the incurable class, many of whom must be included in the statement that "to them their husbands or wives are as strangers and that with regard to the marriage contract they are unable to understand it, to remember it, to fulfil its obligations, or to consent to its annulment."

Sir Reginald Poole himself points out the wholly unenviable position of a separated woman, and the same thing is true of a separated man. And yet it would seem that no separation can be so complete as that which is established by such conditions as those described by the Royal Commission relating to lunacy.

Lack of space, no doubt, prevented Sir Reginald from explaining the reasons for his views. Yet if separation be, as every social reformer, and, indeed, everyone familiar with human nature knows that it is, a position of singular peril and temptation and of peculiar hardship to women, it becomes difficult to understand why a separation established by sentence of the courts and enforced by the walls of prisons or lunatic asylums should not be regarded with the same disfavour as separation due to any other cause.

Guilt in Both Parties
The Royal Commission did not deal, nor did the president, with another matter of constant occurrence and productive of great injustices. It is the rule which provides that, subject to the discretion of the judge, which is and must be sparingly exercised, no person can obtain a divorce on the sole ground upon which divorce is at present permitted—adultery, if the petitioning party has been guilty of the same offence.

This means that divorce is not regarded as it ought to be—an opportunity for parties whose marriage has broken down in utter ruin to repair their lives and begin again—but as a species of reward for good behaviour.

If the marriage tie is broken by the infidelity of one party to the contract it is impossible to understand why it is not doubly destroyed when both parties have been guilty of the breach.

At the present time, after a decree nisi has been pronounced, the King's Proctor is at liberty to start investigations into the private life of the person in whose favour the decree has been granted, and to ask the court to rescind the decree if these inquiries prove to be unfavourable. Such procedure is unknown in Scotland, and no one has ever yet asserted that its absence there has been productive of more mischief than its existence on this side of the border.

Never was your White Horse as good or as old as it is to-day. Years ago, exceptionally heavy stocks of the finest whiskies were laid down to anticipate sales which the quality would justify. RADICAL REVISION OF CURRICULUM

Needed At Ellis Kadoorie School.

HEADMASTER'S SPEECH AT PRIZE-GIVING

"To my mind, the whole curriculum of this school needs radical revision, and a mere paper revision will not meet the case."

With these words Mr. W. L. Handyside, Headmaster of the Ellis Kadoorie Indian School, concluded a critical survey of the present constitution of the classes and the teaching conditions imposed thereby.

In the course of his address at the prize-giving ceremony yesterday Mr. Handyside said:—

"The current year is shorter by two months than usual owing to the Education Department having decided to change the school year. In the 10 months since January the school was opened on 179 days compared with 178 in the corresponding period last year. The maximum enrolment was 173, an increase of 2 over last year. The average attendance was 166.6—last year 157. The higher average this year is chiefly due to a larger minimum (168) than last (163) Studies.

"We held three examinations during the year—a test examination and the usual half-yearly and annual examinations. Certain innovations were made in the type of questions in English with a view to estimating general intelligence rather than standard of attainment. The scope of the experiment was too limited to permit of any sound conclusions; but the fact that (1) boys liked these questions in spite of their novelty and (2) the order of merit on the usual examination basis did not coincide with the order yielded by these questions, shows they had some value.

"At the annual examinations—Classes 8 to 5—136 boys were examined. 120 or 88% passed in English subjects, 80 or 63% passed in Urdu and 118 or 83% passed in both groups. Class 4 was as usual examined by the Education Department. Of 30 candidates 16 passed. Three Government Scholarships, tenable at Queen's College or King's College, were granted.

"Urdu is decidedly weak in the upper classes. Local-born boys as a rule do badly in it. This is because (a) it is a foreign language to them and (b) they have little incentive to apply themselves to it, as a pass in Urdu is not essential for promotion, either within the school or to Queen's College. I have recommended to the Director of Education that steps be taken to improve the status of Urdu as a school subject, my chief argument being that a second language may be necessary for candidates for the new School-leaving Certificate and local-born Indians have only one language, viz. English. Any change will entail a modification of the present Urdu syllabus, but we have anticipated this and next year certain changes will be made as regards both method and subject matter. Apart from mere utilitarian reasons, a change is necessary on both cultural and disciplinary grounds.

Weaknesses
"Previous Headmasters have commented on the general weakness in this school of Arithmetic. I find a similar weakness in Grammar and Geography—in fact in all branches that make a demand on the powers of reasoning. I have tried to find an explanation of this and have concluded that the weakness is deep-seated. In the first place the pupils are too young to appreciate formalism in these branches. Where the boys are old enough, their knowledge of English is inadequate. Second, and arising directly from this, the foundations in these branches are badly laid. The first steps are treated in too abstract a manner.

"I should like to discuss each of these branches separately but it would take up too much time and this is perhaps not the proper occasion: it is rather a question for teachers than for parents.

"Broadly speaking, I may say that there has been a lack of suitable equipment and apparatus and lessons have been too much dissociated from the everyday experience of the pupils. We have tried to remedy these defects. Additions have been made to our apparatus and more will be added next year. But these are only half measures. To my mind, the whole curriculum of this school

TAIT'S MANILA CARNIVAL

Big Attractions At Kowloon.

OPENING THIS MONTH

The popular amusement organisation, Tait's Manila Carnival Show, will open their season here shortly on the vacant ground opposite the Peninsula Hotel.

They are bringing the biggest show that has ever visited Hong Kong. The full Carnival Show will be arriving from Java, where they have just finished a most successful season, playing the State Fairs, etc.

Of riding devices there will be five, something to suit everyone's taste. A new model "Dodgem", the most popular ride in the world, will be here. These are electric cars, twenty in number, which are operated by the individual himself over a flat, smooth surface, fifty by eighty feet.

The Side Shows, which will be with the Carnival on this visit, are claimed to be the best ever presented here. They include the Hawaiian Dancers. This is not just a Hula Hula dance show, it is a first class Cabaret act, colourful and tuneful, with some real good dance numbers in it. Then there is something one has never seen before and may never see again "Queen Python" the biggest snake ever brought to Hong Kong. One should not miss seeing this as it is both entertaining and educational.

The Managing Director, Mr. Eddie Stuart Tait, will personally supervise the Carnival on this visit.

needs radical revision and a mere paper revision will not meet the case.

"As a step in the right direction, we are making, with the consent of the Director of Education a new departure next term. The two lowest classes will become a Kindergarten; they will no longer be subdivisions of Class 8 but separate classes—10 and 9. Secure foundations should then be laid in the fundamentals. This will apply to both English and Urdu.

"In connection with the formation of Kindergarten Classes I should like to take this opportunity of thanking Miss Cotton, Headmistress, Quarry Bay School and her staff for their invaluable assistance.

"If accommodation and staff permitted, I should recommend the sub-division of Class 8 into two sections, thus making the graduation from Kindergarten to Primary work less steep.

America And Inflation.

THAT the bewilderment caused by President Roosevelt's new gold purchasing programme is not confined to outside observers is apparent, and it is now generally recognised that Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers are themselves perplexed by their new plan — or rather their new experiment. Perhaps the most apt comment was the statement that "the President is trying to ride two horses — inflation and sound money." One of the consequences of the gold plan has been the temporary abandonment of the war debt negotiations. But, on the other hand, the question of stabilisation of the dollar-sterling exchange has been revived. One explanation of the bewilderment of the American authorities, when subjected to pressure at London to "stabilise the dollar," and be done with it, has been the lack of visible reason for stabilising at any one point of depreciation rather than another. Congress, in its Inflation Act, authorized no greater reduction than 50 per cent. in the dollar's gold content, but that left margin enough for executive uncertainty. In all actual European "devaluations" since the war, the level for stabilisation was indicated beforehand with reasonable closeness — first through careful study by expert committees, then through the market's appraisal of the currency unit over a term of years. The factors in America's "devaluation problem" exist, as yet only in the realm of happy thoughts. Experts of perhaps equal authority with Congressional committees insist that there is no occasion for any devaluation whatever. What were the governing circumstances which controlled decision on the official post-war "currency devaluations" of continental Europe? The record is accessible. In 1926, the situation existing in France, Belgium and Italy was that all three governments were financially crushed by the expenditure of war. All had suspended gold payments in 1914, and had been meeting the public deficit, during and since the war, with irredeemable paper money. Wholly apart from the immensely increased funded public debt, the French Government owed to its national bank $3,400,000,000, the Italian Government $812,000,000, the Belgian Government $886,000,000. To cover these and similar advances, the French bank's note issue had increased 25 per cent. in a year and 80 per cent. since the armistice of 1918. As a result of this wholesale inflation, the exchange market valuation of the French franc had fallen 90 per cent. from its pre-war gold parity, of the Italian lira 83½ per cent. of the Belgian franc 89 per cent. Most of this depreciation had occurred before 1921, but a panicky feeling had grown general, during 1926, that these currencies were going the way of the German mark. In none of these cases was the possibility of raising prices through devaluation considered as a reason for it. The French committee of experts predicted that "exchange stabilisation will be followed by readjustment of internal prices," that "the increased cost of production will produce exports at the moment when internal consumption will be restricted by rise in the cost of living," and they foresaw "severe disturbance of the markets." Stabilisation at a level 70 to 80 per cent. below the old gold parities was put into force by decree in France, Belgium and Italy; the basis selected being in each instance only slightly above the low quotation reached on the 1926 exchange market. But the prediction regarding prices by the French expert committee was not fulfilled. Average prices in France, which had risen 30 per cent. in the six months before the de facto stabilisation of the franc, lost all the advance in the next six months, and there after changed but little. Italian prices declined abruptly, then ceased to move except with slowness; Belgian prices varied only slightly. In none of the three countries did the price level ever thereafter approach the high point of 1926. Prices remained substantially above the pre-war level, but that was due to influences at work long before the "revaluation" episode. In the actual sequel to legal stabilisation at these very great reductions from gold parity, there was no sensational change in prices. Survey of the conditions surrounding these previous revaluations of European currency units shows at least that no parallel can be drawn with the present American situation, and that this experience of continental Europe throws no light whatever on what is described, not at all convincingly, as her own "stabilisation problem." The idea that a cut of, say, 50 per cent. in the gold content of the dollar must automatically and of itself cause 50 per cent. increase in general prices can find no confirmation; it is a product of the imagination.

Imperial Institute's Future.

The Imperial Institute, whose future is now under discussion, has always been intimately connected with the Royal Family.

It was founded by King Edward to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee of his mother, and the present King has always been solicitous of its welfare.

The position of the Institute was reported on in disquieting terms by the Skelton Committee, which pointed out that, falling new source of revenue, the resources of the Institute would be exhausted by 1937.

It is now under the aegis of the Department of Overseas Trade.

Fruitful Research.

If the Institute is closed Britain will lose something more than its one remaining source of education in Imperial matters. It will lose the valuable fruits of the researches of the Institute's fine laboratories.

The bulk of Empire products are tested in the first instance in these laboratories. Only later are they submitted to trading firms as possible commercial propositions.

In this way a great deal of pioneer work is undertaken where private firms would not care to take risks.

The Institute's Director.

The Director of the Institute is Lt. Gen. Sir William Furse. He is a man of great charm and has made the Institute his be-all and end-all since his retirement from the army in 1920.

From 1916 he was Master-General of Ordnance, and has twice accepted an invitation to extend his period of office in his present post.

A Dangerous Deputation.

The newly-elected National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party has decided to send a deputation to Vienna.

The deputation's purpose is to demonstrate the solidarity of British Socialists with their Austrian comrades.

This is a dangerous scheme—not least from the viewpoint of the Socialists themselves.

Doubtless, Mr. Citrine, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Compton, who compose the deputation, have the most pacific intentions. Doubtless, the platitudes which they will express will seem harmless enough to British minds.

In Austria, where vague expressions of sympathy are so often interpreted as concrete promises of support, the effect will be different.

Interfering from Outside.

There is only one alternative to the Dollfus Government in Austria, and that is a Nazi Government.

By stiffening the backs of the Vienna Socialists with promises of support, British Socialist diplomats will encourage them to oppose Dr. Dollfus, thus playing into the Nazis' hands.

That it may be argued, is their funeral. But the question has a wider aspect. Of all countries in Europe, Austria is at present the one where the scales might most easily be tipped over from peace to war.

It is a reckless thing to interfere in the internal affairs of such a country. And it is illogical in the extreme that the British Socialist Party, after passing a resolution at Hastings which was, in effect, a refusal to allow Britain to be mixed up in any European war, should be guilty of such interference.

The Banned Pamphlet.

The Conservative Central Office gained little by its indignation over Sir Henry Page-Croft's request to local Conservative agents to forward copies of his pamphlet on India to delegates at the Birmingham Conference. The fuss has served only to give the pamphlet a wider circulation.

Copies of the document were distributed outside the conference hall by men carrying large placards inviting the public to "read the suppressed pamphlet."

Delegates were also given copies of the Government's White Paper framed in a broad black border.

No issue within the Party for many years has inspired such an intensive propaganda campaign as the India policy.

The King's Coroner.

The post of King's Coroner, to which Mr. Carrol Romer has just been appointed, is of Saxon origin.

His full title is "Coroner of the King's House," and originally his jurisdiction extended over an area known as "the verge," which comprised all land within 10 miles of the King's Court. He was also responsible for the accuracy of London's weights and measures. By an Act of 1887 "the verge" was abolished, but it is still the duty of the King's Coroner to hold inquests on "persons whose bodies are lying within the limits of any of the King's palaces or in any house where his Majesty is then demurant."

The House of Commons comes under this definition as being part of the Palace of Westminster, and one of the last cases which the King's Coroner had to investigate was the sudden death of a journalist, Mr. J. Drysdale, in the Press Gallery of the House of Commons nine years ago.

Professor Einstein's Plight.

Professor Einstein, after the long siege at Cromer, is shortly leaving for the more tranquil atmosphere of the School of Advanced Studies at Harvard University, Boston, U.S.A.

He was recently asked what he planned to do on his return. "Alas!" replied the professor, "life then will be one long misery for me."

"Why?" he was asked. "Because when I felt Germany everyone was so kind. I cannot tell you how many universities invited me to be their guest, and I accepted all their invitations. That is bad enough, but there is worse to come."

"I have lost my engagement book, and have no idea when I am due in Oxford and when in Madrid."

B. B. C. and Red Tape.

The B. B. C. struggles desperately to cast off the shackles of officialdom, but somehow Fate seems to decree only partial success another instance was given recently.

A luncheon was given in a most hospitable even lavish, fashion, in order that Mr. C. A. Sloperman, the B. B. C. Director of Talks, might explain his programme and policy to radio journalists. He was earnest, fluent and sincere. But he was able to tell them practically nothing they did not know already.

Everything was extremely friendly and agreeable. It was only at a final analysis of results that that decided the guests that they had figuratively—come empty away. Red tape still strangles any real disclosures at birth.

Sir Robert Mond's Gift.

Sir Robert Mond has presented to the Royal United Service Museum a unique collection of miniature soldiers of the Napoleonic Army, which has recently been on view at the Museum.

There are 911 figures, and they took 35 years to collect. Every regiment in Napoleon's Army is represented, including his Irish and Swiss troops, and each regiment has its own band with typical instruments, among which is the antique "serpent." There are also representations of Napoleon himself.

The collection was made by a British officer who insisted on accuracy in details of uniform and equipment.

INTERNATIONAL FAIR AND PAGEANT

National Costumes Of Many Countries.

All the fun of the fair and a colourful picture of many countries were offered at the International Fair and Pageant which was opened yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Church Grounds by Lady Peel, wife of H. E. the Governor, Sir William Peel, K. C. M. G., K. B. E.

Promptly at 2.30 p.m., His Excellency and Lady Peel, accompanied by Captain R. F. Walker, A. D. C., arrived, and were met by His Lordship the Bishop of Victoria, the Rt. Rev. Ronald Hall, and members of the Fair Committee. The first Kowloon Brownies Pack formed a guard of honour for the distinguished guests.

Address of Welcome

Following the opening prayer, Bishop Hall, in an address of welcome to His Excellency and Lady Peel, said that the Church was very grateful for the honour bestowed on the Fair by their presence.

His Lordship referred with praise to the way in which Mr. Rogers had carried on his work at St. Andrew's Church, and expressed his regrets that Mrs. Rogers was unable to be present owing to indisposition.

Mr. J. H. Hunt, Chairman of the Executive Committee, thanked His Excellency and Lady Peel again for their presence and referred to the great assistance which the Committee had received from the many helpers, while the Rev. Mr. Rogers also paid tribute to the Church societies including the Y. M. C. A. (Women's section), V. D. M. A., the Lincolnshire Ladies and the Y. P. S., for their generous help.

His Excellency and Lady Peel spent more than an hour visiting the many stalls and attractions of the Fair.

The Grand Pageant

Nine gaily decked stalls, each representing a separate country, were dotted about the grounds, from which fancy goods, home-made provisions, lavender, flowers, fruit and confectionery could be purchased.

The performance of the Grand Pageant began at 3.30 p.m., and continued until 6.30 p.m., followed by a Carnival Dance in the Church Hall at 9.30 p.m.

Other attractions were the Gipsy Encampment, where refreshments could be obtained, Madame Eve, the fortune-teller, an Aunt Sally, an aerial railway a lucky dip, a switch-back railway, coconut shies and a cake weight-guessing competition.

The Pageant will be repeated tomorrow at 9.15 p.m. at the Church Hall.

TOUGH METAL FOR PISTONS INVENTED

Unprecedented Strength And Resistance.

FOUND BY SWEDISH ENGINEER

Stockholm. A new light metal for motor pistons claimed to be of unprecedented durability and resistance, invented by a Swedish engineer Erik A. Nilsson, has lately aroused a great deal of attention amongst Swedish motor experts.

Mr. Nilsson, who has previously made himself known as the inventor of a bearing metal of great merit, has now succeeded in composing a metal that practically has the same specific weight and heat-conducting qualities as other piston metals known, but which at the same time is self-lubricating to such an extent that it is stated to possess at least ten times the wearing quality and life-length of any other piston alloys.

While previous similar metals have been found to wear out quickly and to break under the strain of high speeds, the strength and power of resistance of the Nilsson material increases through the explosion that developed in the cylinders.

About 200 of the new pistons are at present in use and the users are surprised at their excellent quality. A number of racing motor bicycles are equipped with these pistons and in certain cases they have been used in 10 races without displaying any noticeable signs of wear and without necessitating an exchange or the regrinding of the cylinders. Tests have been performed at a speed of 8,500 revolutions a minute without affecting the metal of the pistons or cylinders. Mr. Nilsson recently patented his new invention and now intends to exploit it commercially abroad.—Reuter.

Lessons From The Roman Martyrs

Great Sacrifices For Crown Of Life

STORY OF THE THUNDERING LEGION

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

BY a very strange but apt coincidence "The Sign of the Cross" was being shown in Hong Kong on Thursday last. The coincidence lies in the fact that it happened to be All Saints Day, the one set apart for us to remember all those who in every age have laid down their lives for the faith of Jesus of Nazareth, who after great trial and tribulation, won through to a crown of life.

Their numbers are legion. Not many of them are recorded in the pages of history, for the vast majority of them were but humble folk, poor as the world reckons these things—thousands of them slaves, who had embraced the new religion in the dark days of the Roman Empire, when during their first four centuries, persecutions, one after the other, broke out against the followers of the Nazarene.

They were but the fore-runners of those others all down the centuries, who have wrought and suffered, gladly and willingly, in the slums of our great cities of the West, or in the fields of missionary endeavour, in the far places of the earth, that the Master they loved and served should be uplifted as the Lord of all life. The blood of the martyrs was the seed of the Church.

Sacrifice Welcomed.

One of the pagan Roman writers in the early days of Christianity, wrote that he had seen the early Church in the Catacombs, "and noted from the faces of the young men that they had faced life and were glad."

Glad, mark you, glad, though it meant that they were driven into the sewers of Rome to hold their services, that death was waiting them at the hands of any informer, that they were liable to be thrown to the lions in the Arena, strung up as living torches in the gardens of Nero's Palace for the amusement of his guests, butchered to make a Roman holiday. Yet they never wavered in face of it all, men women and even little children gave themselves in willing sacrifice. Was it any wonder that the old world was overcome by their devotion, that instead of Christianity perishing, it spread like a flame across the Empire?

Christians Tortured.

Let me tell you just one incident. In the year 312 A.D. one of the crack Roman Regiments—The Thundering Legion—was stationed in the city of Sebaste, in the centre of Armenia, twice the height above sea-level of Snowdon.

An Edict was issued by the Emperor Licinius that every soldier in the Roman armies was to offer a sacrifice to the heathen gods. Those who were Christians were suspected of being disloyal to their country, and anyway they were determined to stamp out this new religion as soon as possible.

There were forty Christians in the Legion, and they refused to obey the order. They were paraded before their General. He argued with them, reminded them of their solemn duty to the Emperor but still they refused, and drastic methods were ordered.

In these days it would be considered rank mutiny, and there would have been no argument, but on the other hand no such order would ever be given. Men may worship God according to their religious convictions, without fear or favour, in fact they need have no religion at all.

Ordered To Certain Death.

That winter was one of the coldest ever known in Armenia, so cold that the sentries were sometimes found frozen at their posts. In the centre of Sebaste was a lake, frozen to its very depths. On the water's edge was the Temple of Mars, the god of war. The General ordered that they should be stripped naked, and turned out on to the ice all night until cock-crow. In the Temple was lit a roaring fire. Basins of hot soup were made ready, and warm blankets. The doors were left open, so that the room was visible from the lake. If any of them liked to enter the Temple they would be accepted as denying their faith.

As they marched to the lake their leader prayed, "Forty athletes, oh Lord, have entered the arena, let forty victors win the crown of life." Some soon fell, and slept the sleep that ends only in death. Others stamped up and down to try and gain some warmth, but they refused to enter the Temple, and deny their Lord. Only one failed. They pleaded with him. They reminded him of the crown promised to those who were faithful unto death. But he had not courage enough. He slipped away into the warmth of the Temple and was gone.

Conversion of Sempronius

Sempronius, the Centurion, who commanded the Legion, was himself on duty by the lake. He was filled with admiration at the courage of these men, and with contempt for the deserter. "Lord God of the Christians," he cried, "let me too be the soldier," and flinging aside his armour and his clothes, joined the band upon the ice. One of the dying men melted a handful of snow, and baptised him. In the morning forty victors, after all, had won the crown of life. This is a true story, recorded in Roman History, for all to read, and written in letters of gold in the books of God.

High Courage Not Demanded.

We are not called upon, these days, for courage such as this. If we were, God knows how much or how little of it we could stand. But the call comes to us who profess and call ourselves Christians to walk worthy of our high calling and not to be ashamed to confess Him, Whose we are, and Whom we serve. It may mean a little sacrifice, but Long years ago, when earth lay cold and still, Rose a loud cry, upon a lonely hill, When in the frailty of our human clay, Christ, our Redeemer, passed the self-same way.

Still stands His Cross, from that dread hour to this, Like some bright star, above the dark abyss, Still through the veil, the Victor's pitying eyes, Look down to bless our lesser Calvaries.

These were His servants, in His steps they trod, Following through death, the martyred Son of God, Victors! He rose, victorious too shall rise, Those who have drunk His cup of sacrifice.

THIS WORLD OF OURS.

ODD FACTS OF SCIENCE IN EVERYDAY LIFE.

For signalling from submerged submarines a Japanese has invented apparatus that fires a projectile which bursts into flame when it reaches the surface of the water.

Claiming to save 30 per cent. in weight and 50 per cent. in construction costs, an Italian architect has invented buildings that are virtually suspended from central steel structures without outside posts.

Using the track rails to conduct the electric current, a new system has been developed to permit telephoning between nearby railroad trains, between trains and stations and between engines and cars in a train.

According to a German scientist, if all the persons in the world gathered in one place and shouted at the same time the total energy expended, transformed into heat units, would be just enough to boil water for one cup of tea.

The high accuracy of the clock used by the United States Naval Observatory to transmit time signals is controlled by the unvarying vibrations of a quartz crystal that control electric impulses that enter a motor 1,000 times a second.

To aid the motion picture industry the government of Portugal has given a domestic company the right to import duty free all machines, apparatus and materials necessary as well as exemption from certain taxes for the next five years.

NEW TYPE OF BUS IN KOWLOON

Diesel-Engined Machine For Service.

WHOLE FLEET MAY BE CONVERTED

A Gardner Diesel-engined, 30-seater-Thornycroft motor-bus, the first of its kind to be put into service in the Colony, will be operated by the Kowloon Motor Bus Company within a few days.

Very satisfactory results have been obtained in trial runs, and, if these are maintained in actual service, the Company intend to convert their entire fleet to Diesel engines.

The Company has just received a shipment of Bedford buses, consisting of 24-seaters and 18-seaters, for service in the New Territories and on town routes.

Consideration to double-decked buses, capable of carrying 50 to 60 passengers, will be given at a later date. The Company also hopes to build a new and larger garage, in which the entire fleet of buses can be housed.

TO A CLUB PIANO ON THE CHINA COAST.

You're old and tired and tinny,
And your keys are amber hue,
For you've stood the night long racket
Played tunes both old and new!
You've accompanied piping tenors,
Or 'blotto' baritone,
And even would-be-bassos
In boomy monotones!

You're only an old piano
But it's wonderful what you do!
"Little Brown Jug" and "Old Lang Syne"
And the "Bells of St. Mary's" too!
They rattle the dice around you,
And the whiskey flows again,
"Boo, one for the old pianer!"
And you sound, but you sound in vain!

The Club-Boy never dusts you,
And your pedals always squeak,
But with plenty of beer inside me
Your music makes me weep!
You were made in dear old England
In eighteen ninety four,
And the name on your well worn keyboard
Was a famous firm of yore!

I suppose it depends who plays you
Whether you sound all right,
And even the worst musician
Plays better when he's tight!
So here's to the happy evening!
Here's to the friends you know!
Though you're only an old piano,
You've a soul for even you!

RUSSIAN WITHOUT VALID PASSPORT

Ruse To Gain Footing In Colony.

$100 FINE AND ORDER OF EXPULSION

Prosecuting a Ukrainian, John H. Drill, at the Central Police Court yesterday for entering the Colony without a valid passport, Mr. L. H. Booth, Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence, described the defendant's action as a deliberate attempt to flout the regulations and to obtain a footing in the Colony.

Mr. E. W. Hamilton, the Magistrate, imposed a fine of $100, in default two months' hard labour, and ordered the defendant's expulsion from the Colony.

It was stated that the defendant came to Mr. Booth's office on November 3 at 10 a.m. and, producing a Chinese passport from Canton with H. B. M. Consul's visa for direct transit from Canton to Amoy through Hong Kong, said that he had missed his ship and asked for permission to stop in Hong Kong for a fortnight.

Mr. Booth said that for certain reasons permission was refused and the defendant was advised to take a Douglas steamship leaving for Amoy at 4 p.m. the same day, under penalty of being arrested.

The defendant returned to the police station at 3.10 p.m., producing a letter from a Latvian resident asking permission for him to remain in the Colony. He was again warned that he must leave.

At 5 p.m. the same day, defendant again came to Mr. Booth and asked why he would not allow him to stay. He was then taken into custody.

Mr. Hamilton, in sentencing the defendant, said: "It is a perfectly clear case. You came to the Colony on certain conditions and you broke them. You have a grievance against the police because they insisted on your leaving the Colony. You would probably get shot for the same thing in your own country, I imagine."

HOLIDAY CRUISE TRAFFIC

Rich Yield From Short Voyages.

TWO COMPANIES TAKE £1,500,000

London. Shortly holiday cruises in luxury liners have been more popular than ever this year and the revenue from that source has more than made up for the falling off of passengers for long voyages owing to world depression.

At the Cunard Steamship Company's office Reuter learned that 21 cruises had been organised this year as against 11 last year and that 60,000 miles had been covered as compared with 30,000 miles in the previous year. The number of passengers increased from 10,000 to 15,000.

Although the final figures are not yet available, the receipts from fares alone for 18 cruises by the Lancastria, the Samaria and the Carinthia—three of the most popular liners—amount to £221,000.

The White Star Line reports an equally satisfactory result. Some 20,400 people went on 34 cruises of an average length of 13 days. They paid an average fare of £2 a day. This company claims to have run more short cruises and carried more passengers this year than any other steamship company in the world.

It is estimated that these two shipping lines have taken at least £1,500,000 from this year's short cruises. Both companies are busy drawing up their plans for next year and are looking forward to even more successful results.—Reuter.

THE TIGER OF TIBET

as I enjoy the privilege of your charming company. I feel I owe a duty to my other guests, who are near neighbours of yours. In fact, in the very next room. But here you are. I am sure you will find this a most interesting document, and on the whole a remarkably accurate one as far as it goes. If you would like to make any additions or alterations I will have a pen and ink sent down to you. So long."

Thompson flung a fairly bulky envelope into Geoffrey's face and left the cell, closing the door behind him. Almost mechanically Geoffrey picked it up and saw, to his dismay and bitter grief that it was the envelope which he himself had addressed to Brandon, and which contained a full account of his doings to the date of writing and of his suspicions as to the locality of the "Tiger's" lair!

A thought struck him, and he examined for the first time the three grisly relics which were suspended on the opposite wall. An realization broke in upon him his face became bathed in sweat and a cry burst from his unknowing lips. The heads were those of the two sturdy Bhotias, Tsering and Tangin, and the Tibetan whom he had taken prisoner after the night attack on the mission-station!

For some minutes he lay dazed on the floor altogether stunned by the blow. Throughout the whole period of his captivity there had been the subconscious feeling of satisfaction and hope that, even if he himself were killed, the cause would not be lost. His letter to Brandon had told far more than any Government official had realised up to date, and would undoubtedly lead to the discovery of the "Tiger's" lair. These thoughts had comforted him and helped him to receive Thompson's sarcastic and brutal insults with an apparent equanimity which he was far from feeling. He had longed to hurl himself at Thompson's throat, bound as he was, and die a fighting death. But his better judgment had prevailed and told him that such behaviour was the very thing which Thompson sought, and that death would be as far away as ever. The faith which he had pinned to his report had buoyed him so that he had been able to control himself. But now these hopes were gone, dashed to the ground in a sudden crash.

What a fool he had been not to send the letter off immediately! He had thought of this, but then had held his hand through a ridiculous desire to succeed alone. Well, well, he had determined to play a lone hand, and now he was reaping the folly of his foolish conceit.

One of Thompson's Tibetan servants then broke in on his bitter reverie with a large bowl of stew, some boiled rice, and a tin of water. Geoffrey spoke to him in Tibetan, but the man shook his head and opened his mouth wide, revealing a dark and gaping void. His tongue had been cut near the roots.

There was a jingle as of keys when the man left the cell, and then Geoffrey plainly heard him patter along a short passage and open another door. This door was locked, as the rasping of the key in the lock was distinctly audible. There was a pause followed by a murmur of voices in which Phyllis's sweetly modulated tones were unmistakable. Geoffrey longed to call out, but realised the futility, for even if the man was a mute he was obviously not deaf, and would be certain to convey the news to Thompson, who would be equally certain to put a stop to any such intercourse.

The meal was plentiful and comparatively appetising, and Geoffrey for the moment forgot his sorrows and ate heartily. The inevitable reaction set in after the food and he fell into a dreamless sleep.

How long he slept he never knew, but he was awakened by the dumb Tibetan's return with more food and drink. The time dragged slowly by, but rest and nourishment began to have their effect, and Geoffrey's instinct of self-preservation once again began to make itself felt. After all, he was only chained to a wall; his legs and arms were free; the dumb jailer carried keys; those were probably the keys of his iron belt. If only he could obtain these keys there was a chance of escape—very remote, but still a chance. Why should he not overpower the Tibetan and take the keys?

Those thoughts no sooner swept through Geoffrey's brain than he began to make plans for putting them into execution. The seed of hope had been sown and rapidly began to grow.

(To Be Continued.)

MOTING NOTES.

SYNCHROMESH GEAR BOXES.

Boon To Car Drivers.

The adoption of the synchromesh gear-box on many British cars is an interesting and significant move. It is the outcome of two years' continuous research and experiment with the three easy-change methods so far devised—pre-selection, freewheel, and synchromesh.

The last is in some ways the simplest; for the person who has learnt to use (and to hate) the ordinary, or, as we may call it now, the old-fashioned gear-box, it suddenly turns him into 100 per cent. skilful gear-changer without asking him to alter his methods or learn anything new. Also these new synchromesh boxes developed here from the original American pattern give two silent indirect gears and allow changing to be effected just as rapidly and snappily as with the pre-selector type. But synchromesh still leaves the lever sticking up through the floor.

BRITISH CARS LEAD IN CEYLON.

Big Jump In August.

Statistics published on September of motor vehicles on the registers in Ceylon was 23,180—an increase of 48 over the total a month earlier.

Motor cars alone increased by as many as 47 during August. The number of cars of British manufacture has risen to 5,883 and now exceeds the number of American cars in Ceylon, which on August 31 stood at 5,849.

HUNGARY BUILDS EIFFEL TOWERS.

984-Foot Wireless Aerials.

Budapest.
Two towers, both higher than the Eiffel Tower in Paris, are being built just outside Budapest.

They are destined to be aerials for a new wireless transmitting station, which will be three times more powerful than the present one.

The towers will be cigar-shaped.
The Eiffel Tower is 984 feet high and 7,300 tons of steel were used in its construction.—Reuter.

Difficulties Of Marriage.

Again, where a decree nisi has been obtained there is no power to compel the petitioner to make the decree absolute.

This circumstance, as Sir Ro-gerd Poole must know, lends itself only too readily to blackmail. The Royal Commission advised that this scandal should cease, but again no heed has been taken of their words.

Lords' Vote For Reform
The authority of the Commission, although disregarded by every successive Government, does not, however, stand alone. The House of Lords in 1921, after prolonged debates in an unusually large House of 252 members, passed by a majority of 38 votes a bill incorporating its recommendations.

Whatever may be said of the House of Lords, no one can possibly deny that it is composed of men with the widest possible experience in matters affecting the social life of this country, nor can they question that it is a place where debate is more wholly free and uninterrrupted than in any legislative chamber in the world.

Everything that could be said against the bill was there said by the lips of the measure, chief among whom were the present and late Archbishops of Canterbury, and yet this judgment was once more confirmed by the House in 1922, and again in 1924.

It is surely time that some steps were taken to give effect to opinion so powerfully expressed.

That the Government might find it difficult to pledge themselves in advance to the exact details of any measure is certainly true, but there can be no reason why full time should not be granted for the thorough consideration of bill introduced by a private member, and it is this that the supporters of divorce reform require to be done.

Setting People Free
The relationship of men and women is one of the most delicate in the whole fabric of our national life. It is capable of achieving the highest happiness that man can know, and it is capable also of degrading to the lowest abysses of misery and degradation those who suffer from its abuse.

To set people free from the confines of conditions which impair and imperil the higher possibilities of their nature as an object which should secure the support of all those who desire that others should share the comforts they themselves enjoy.

WHY SUFFER FROM

Influenza	Colds	Headaches	Neuralgia
Rheumatism	Nerve Pains	Sleeplessness	Lumbago
Toothache	Earache	Irritability	etc. etc.

THERE is no long waiting for results. A few 'ASPRO' Tablets and relief practically follows immediately. Furthermore, with 'ASPRO' there are no injurious after-effects, because 'ASPRO' contains no dangerous dopes or drugs and it does not harm the heart. Cheap drugs and medicines are always dangerous —they cost far more in the long run—they intensify attacks—rob you of vitality through weakening the system—and lower your power of resistance.

Remember! 'ASPRO' is guaranteed to contain no dangerous drugs. It is concentrated pure healing service in Tablet form.
You can obtain 'ASPRO' from any chemist or store in Hong Kong.
'ASPRO' has been proved and demonstrated by thousands to be the greatest pain reliever in the world. Furthermore, it restores you to good health by removing the cause of numerous complaints because 'ASPRO', after ingestion in the system, is anti-pyretic — anti-periodic — anti-fermentative — anti-septic and a solvent of Uric Acid. Every house which has a packet of 'ASPRO' in it is provided against most complaints and sudden pain attacks.

'ASPRO'

Does Not Harm the Heart

What 'ASPRO' Does:

The PURITY of 'ASPRO'

The purity of "ASPRO" conforms to the standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. With 'ASPRO' there is no free Salicylic acid, therefore, it does not harm the heart, or have any injurious after-effects, such as palpitation, nausea, digestive or other troubles. Safeguard your health and heart by always insisting on 'ASPRO'.

5 MINUTES

FOR RELIEF WITH
'ASPRO'

There is nothing unhealthy about
'ASPRO'. Its service is QUICK—safe, effective and definite. It gives you relief in 5 to 10 minutes and then goes on to dispel or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect its own cure. Furthermore, you get no harmful after-effects from
'ASPRO', as it is speedily eliminated from the system a few hours after being taken. It neither dopes, deadens nor drugs.

1 It Stops Violent Head- aches in 5 to 10 minutes	9 A hot lemon drink with 2 or 3 'ASPRO' Tablets will smash up a Cold or Flu attack in one night.
2 It Brings Sweet Sleep to the Sleepless.	10 It Reduces Temperature in 5 minutes.
3 It Relieves Rheumatism in one night.	11 It can be taken at any time, in Tram, Train, at Home, at Business — anywhere —
4 It Relieves Children's Growing Pains.	12 It gives the greatest relief ever known to women at their times of periodical depres- sion.
5 It Saves many a Sound Tooth by Removing Toothache.	13 It Stops the Ill After-Effects of Alcohol.
6 It Brings Relief without causing sickness, indi- gestion or a craving.	14 It relieves Dengue and Ma- laria by reducing the fever.
7 It Stops Pain without harm- ing the Heart.	15 As a Cough, 'ASPRO' is won- derful for Sore Throats, Tonsillitis, etc.
8 It soothes away Irritability.

'ASPRO' is Woman's Best Friend

Possibly the greatest users of 'ASPRO' are women, for whom it has a special charm on account of the varied periodical experiences with which all women are familiar. They surely know just what a wonderful soothing and pain dispeller
'ASPRO' is—millions of women
throughout the World now regularly take 'ASPRO', the safe, sure and effective medicine, to relieve their pain and accompanying physical depression, who before had to resort to dangerous drugs, narcotics or opiates. The understanding woman uses 'ASPRO'.

KISSING MARATHON "JUST TOO RAW"

Proposed Contest In U.S. Town.

Cleveland, Ohio.

A kissing marathon, says Mayor Charles R. Ely of Euclid, is "just too raw."

Twelve couples expected to start a "World's championship" kissing marathon in Euclid Village and had predicted they would maintain their kissing poses 55 minutes out of every hour, long enough to break the record of six and one-half hours established recently in Chicago.

Mayor Ely got busy—and there was no marathon. "People do not like this kind of stuff," he said.
"My wife has been receiving telephone calls all day from people protesting against the proposed contest."—Reuter.
